The Weather. OFFICE OF THE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER, WASHINGTON, D.C., October 22, 1881, 9:30 a.m. For the Middle Atlantic states, fair weather, variable winds, lower barometer, stationary or higher temperature.

Special Weather Bulletin. FAIR WEATHER FOR SUNDAY INDICATED.

The chief signal officer furnishes the following special bulletin to the press: The barometer is lowest in Iowa, and highest in the middle and south Atlantic States. The temperature has risen in the lower lake region from seven to twelve degrees, from three to nine degrees in the upper lake region and the upper Mississippi valley, from three to seven degrees in the Ohio Valley and Tenneseee, and from four to ten degrees in the gulf states; in New England, the middle and south Atlantic states, it has remained nearly stationary. East of the Mississippi river the weather is fair. The winds are light and variable. Fair weather is indicated for New England, and the middle Atlantic states for today and to-morrow.

Definite action was postponed to the first Friday in November.

CHARGED WITH KEEPING UNLICENSED BILLIARD Tables.-Edward S. Randall, who keeps a restaurant and billiard salcon on Pennsylvania avenue between 13th and 14th streets, was charged in th Police Court this morning with having five unlicensed billiard tables in his saloon. Mr. W. S. Brown, defendant's counsel, stated to the court that Mr. Randall has been absent at Yorktown, and is not in town at present, and asked that the case be continued. The court declined to continue the case, and witnesses testified to playing billiards and pool in Mr. Randall's saloon, and stated that when a game is played they have to buy checks, and they can get drinks or cigars for the checks to the amount they pay for them. Mr. Brown claimed that as the players got the value of the checks in drinks and cigars, nothing was paid for the use of the table. The court held that if he had the tables there to make his place popular and in-crease the receipts of his bar, and did not receive money directly for the use of the tables, he was as money directly for the use of the law as if he did receive pay for each hable to the law as if he did receive pay for each lable to the law as if he did receive pay for each game. The court suspended judgment until Wed-esday, when Mr. Randall will be in court.

CHARGED WITH PASSING COUNTERFEIT COIN .-Officer Cotter, of the first precinct, arrested a young colored man named Wm. Meredith, at No. 100 Maine avenue, this morning on a warrant sworn out by a white woman named Sarah Sullivan, charging him with passing counterfeit coin, knowing it to have been such. She states that in buying something from her, he gave her a counerfeit one dollar coin.

Etiquette, Etcetera. TRINGS THAT BOTHER THE DIPLOMATIC AND PASH-

IONABLE ALLEGED MIND. It is said by those who have been presented at the Spanish court that in his mode of receiving the diplomatic corps at his residence on the 13th, and the French and German visitors in the rotunda the following day, President Arthur adopted the plan observed at that court. On both the occasions noted, instead of the President standing, as has been the case heretofore, in the appointed place, and awaiting the arrival of visitors who would pass him in turn, pausing as they did so to ex-change greetings, the visitors awaited his arrival, and were stationary while the President approached, and greeted each in turn.

Another feature of the reception which was no-ticed was that President Arthur and Secretary Blaine both wore frock coats, while all the gentlemen of the diplomatic corps not entitled to wear court uniforms were dress suits. It will be re-membered that during President Hayes' administration, it was long a mooted point as to whether dress or frock coats should be worn by gentlemen without uniform at the official New Year reception of the diplomatic corps at the White House as it occurs always before noon. President Hayes always wore a dress suit, but Secretary Evarts, until last New Year, invariably wore a frock coat. Last New Year day he followed the President's exbe puzzled to know whether in this respect to fol-low the example of the President or the Secretary puzzled as to what would be the most suitable his starting-point. He arranged with a friendly dress to wear when President Garfield's funeral hackman to bring his luggage to the station and services occurred at the Capitol. He came to the conclusion that as those members of the diplothe train, hoping in the confusion attending its dematic corps who wear uniforms at European courts would wear them on that occasion a dress suit would be the proper one for him, and so he wore it. Some question the propriety of appearing in full dress at a funeral, while lessly and loosely about my neck. My knowledge of the street of the diplocation of the diplocat they would pay to an earthly sovereign. This is the custom at funerals of rulers in Europe. At two funerals in two private families in Washington within a few years, one of the chief mourners took this view of the case. One was that of the child of a noted Washington correspondent. Here the father appeared at the funeral in full evening decision of this conductor. Agitated though I was

The Early-Mahone Imbroglio.

PAST AND PRESENT PHASE OF THE CASE. The correspondence between Gen. Early 330 Gen. Mahone in 1871, which was of a savagely personal nature on the part of the former, has son near the ground that we came in contact with made public. A New York magazine published a trees. Then again our balloon took an military sketch of Mahone which was very flattering and laudatory of the latter's ability, genius and courage, but contained reflections upon other the rain poured down in torrents. confederate generals. Among those most severely dealt with was Gen. Early. The publisher of the magazine and author of the sketch attached a foot-note to the effect that the article had been submitted to Mahone before publication, and approved by him. Gen. Early, as soon as he saw the publication, addressed a letter to Gen. Mahone, desiring to know if he was responsible for the objectionable paragraphs. Mahone's reply was not sat-isfactory and Early wrote another letter, savagely caustic in tone and language. Finally a sort of compromise was effected by Mahone's procuring the re-publication of the article with all allusions to Early omitted. For this second insertion, it appears Mahone had to pay regular advertising

Now, ten years after the controversy, the correspondence is brought out by a heated political canvass, in which Mahone is prominent on one side and Early on the other. What influence the letters can possibly have on the canvass or the voting does not appear even at this short distance from Virginia. It having been charged that Early's recent denunciation of Mahone was part of a conspiracy to force the latter into a duel and kill him, Gen. Early is quoted as having said, on this point, yesterday, that he had no idea of forcing Mahone into a duel. "I knew there was no danger of that," he remarked; and he might have added that there would have been no danger in the duel either, if fought after the modern Virginia plan.

A Medical View of Guiteau. The New York Medical Record says that Guiteau belongs to "the crazy circle"-half-way between the insane and idiotic on the one hand and the simply "nervous" on the other. It claims that it is the duty of society to protect itself from the acts and delusions of this crazy circle. His morbid egotism is a sign of mental unbalance, but not of insanity. His delusions are not attended by hallucing nations. He is simply a disagreeably eccentric character. "His egotism was great, but not phe-nomenal; his delusions were contemptible, but not entirely without data." But, even supposing that some taint of insanity were upon him, the Medical Record does not think that fact sufficient proof that he was not legally responsible. It must first be shown that his delusion was such that the criminal did not know the nature of the act he was doing—did not know the nature of the act he was doing—did not know he was doing wrong. This will not be easy to demonstrate. At present his crime appears be "the act of a vicious nature, congenitally bad and erratic, perhaps, but made worse by self-indulgence and the unchecked promptings of a supergraphic of the self-indulgence and the unchecked promptings of a supreme egotism." How Frederick Douglass Escaped from Slavery.

HIS OWN STORY OF HIS ADVENTURES. In the Century Magazine ex-Marshal Douglass, of this city, gives an account of his escape from ample. The diplomats without uniforms used to slavery. In those days colored passengers leaving Baltimore by rail were obliged to exhibit papers showing that they were free persons. "Yes, sir," I answered; "I have a paper with the American eagle on it, and that will carry me around the world." At Havre de Grace he met a young colored man whom he knew and who seemed curious to find out his business so far from home. He got rid of this difficulty only to encounter another. At the window of a train, standing on a side track directly opposite the one he was in, sat a man for whom he had just been working at Baltimore. By good luck the man did not turn around, so he was undiscovered. On reaching Philadelphia he inquired his way to the New York trains, and arrived in that city on the 4th of September, 1838, a free man.

Five Days in a Cranberry Bog. ROUGH EXPERIENCE OF BALLOONISTS.

The balloonist, Prof. King, and Signal Officer altitude of 4,300 feet, moving southwest; a few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, and we were carried away to the west and northwest. At 5:15 on Friday we passed over Spring Valley, Wis., and afterward over the Platte Mounds. At 8 a.m. we passed over 'Putton,' or some similarly named place. At 9:50 we arose among the clouds. The wind increasing. carried us at a rapid rate, probably forty or fifty miles per hour, and not being able to discern stationary objects, we could not tell where we were or what course we were pursuing. In passing Little Falls, Monroe county, Wis., we came so collecting on the outside of the balloon. It poured down the mouth of the bag into the basket in a steady stream. At 12:45 the highest known elevation was reached, being 9,600 feet. From the last person spoken, we found we were forty miles from St. Paul, and when we descended at 2:30 p.m., on the west bank of a river, half a mile inland, we concluded that we were in the state of Minnesota, probably forty miles north of St. Paul, on the Mississippi river. With this supposition in mind we stepped out of our car into about eighteen inches of water, and found that we were in a cranberry bog. To write our experience after that for the succeeding five days is too horrible. However, we walked for five days up to our knees through boggy swamps, without food, except what berries we could gather, and slept on the wet ground at night. At 4 o'clock in the evening of the fifth day we reached Flambeau river, and were carried across by Cleramere Bertand and Michael Miner, two woodmen, and here we are.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

DEAR SIR:—Having seen a long article in your paper last Saturday mentioning many persons visited by your representative who have been cured by Dr. Hartley, I desire to give you the particulars of my case. I had suffered many years with catarrh and deafness, especially from catarrh—first one and then the other nostril closed up, so that I could not breathe; often I had to sit up in bed at night to obtain relief. My suffering was often in-creased by severe pains in the head. About two years ago I placed myself under Dr. Hartley, and for the first few days my catarrh appeared much worse than ever. I determined to stop in disgust, but the Doctor urged me to continue, as he said that he desired to increase the discharge at first I continued, and the result proved most satisfactory, my hearing was soon entirely restored, my catarrh cured, and during the last two years I have had no catarrh, no deafness, and am as well to-day as any one, and all who know me can testify to the If you will kindly give this space in the columns

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY.

Hon. JOHN H. BRODHEAD, for twenty years a resident of this city, died this morning at the residence of his son, at the age of eighty. Col. Brodhead was born at Milford, Pike county, Pa., and represented that county in the legislature for two terms, and was afterwards the county treasurer, and associate judge for fifteen years; at the close of the war he was appointed, with Gen. N. L. Jeffries, a commissioner to adjust the war claims of the states of Indiana and West Virginia; since then he has been almost continuously in the Treasurer. war claims of the states of Indiana and West Virginia; since then he has been almost continuously in the Treasury department. Col. B. was the father of Rev. Augustus Brodhead, many years missionary in India; of J. F. Brodhead, of San Francisco, and Mark Brodhead, of this city. He has also four daughters, one of whom is the wife of Senator Van Wyck, of Nebraska; another the wife of Rev. Dr. Carpenter, of Brooklyn; another the wife of Hon. D. M. Van Auken, formerly member of Congress from Pennsylvania. He was a man of excellent judgment and of genial social qualities.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

READY OCTOBER 22D. EDITION, 135,000 NOVEMBER NUMBER OF

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE (SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.)

With this number begins the new series under the title of THE CENTURY MAGAZINE, which will be, in fact, a new, enlarged, and improved "SCRIB-NER." The page is somewhat longer and wider, admitting pictures of a larger size, and VIRTUALLY INCREASING THE READING MATTER TO THE EXTENT OF

FOURTEEN ADDITIONAL PAGES. The November number is one of rare beauty and interest. It is richly illustrated with more than seventy engravings, among them a frontispiece

PORTRAIT OF GEORGE ELIOT, the only authorized portrait of the great novelist yet published, or to be published, furnished by her husband, Mr. Cross, and reproduced from an etching made especially for this purpose by M. Paul Rajon. It accompanies a paper by Frederick W. Myers, who deals interestingly with George Eliot's religious and philosophical beliefs.

MRS. BURNETT'S NEW NOVEL, 'Through One Administration," a story of social and political life in Washington, begun in this number, is expected to rival in interest the writer's "That Lass o' Lowrie's," and "A Fair Barbarian." MARK TWAIN

Contributes a complete short story, entitled "A Curious Experience." Mary Hallock Foote furnishes an entertaining paper on

With eight of her own illustrations, engraved by Cole, Closson, and others. An article on IMPRESSIONS of SHAKSPEREAN CHARACTERS, BY TOMMASO SALVINI. The eminent Italian tragedian, will attract wide attention. There is also a paper on Salvini, with drawings of him in Othello and Macbeth. "COSTUMES IN THE GREEK PLAY AT HARVARD," By Frank D. Millet, the artist who designed the costumes for the play, includes seventeen striking illustrations by Brennan. An opportunity for reproducing seven magnificent paintings is afforded by a paper on the artists

FORTUNY AND REGNAULT. "Around Cape Ann" is a breezy longshore article, illustrated with nine exquisite reproductions of etchings by Stephen Parrish.

"MY ESCAPE FROM SLAVERY," BY FREDERICK DOUGLASS, Is a paper of historical value and interest. W. J. Stillman has an interesting article, with twentybig Company's Coca Beef Tonic. Beware of five illustrations, on the discovery and origin of "THE SO-CALLED VENUS OF MELOS," (Milo). There is a capital short story by the author of tain on "Compulsory Lane Routes in the North

> James Russell Lowell, Edmund Clarence Stedman, Edmund W. Gosse, Austin Dobson, Mary Mapes Dodge, Richard Watson Gilder, and others.

"Topics of the Time" contains contributions from the pen of the late Dr. Holland, on the change in the name of the magazine, on "The Contingency of 'Inability'," and "Public Spirit." This November number contains the prospectus for the coming year. The portrait of Dr. Holland, photographed from a life-size picture by Wyatt Eaton, and issued just before his death, will possess a new interest to the readers of this magazine. It is offered at $5 retail, or together with THE CENTURY MAGAZINE for one year for $6.50. Subscriptions are taken by book-sellers and news-dealers everywhere. Regular price of the magazine, $4 a year; 35 cents a
